Executive Brief

Tru-Medical Protection for America

Overview

Tru-Medical Protection for America is a policy framework designed to separate medical care delivery from financial protection, while using existing federal and private-market mechanisms to provide continuous medical protection.

Core Elements

- Universal Medicare identification number
- Income-based premium contribution model using a 6% working example
- Private carrier plan delivery modeled after Medicare Advantage
- Individual coverage portability instead of family-premium dependency

Policy Objectives

- Reduce administrative duplication
- Stabilize access to coverage
- Simplify public assistance structures
- Create a more predictable long-term funding framework
